DEATH BY A THOUSAND CUTS

ONE THOUSAND British people have been murdered during the last year by Tory Government policy.

These 1000 people suffered from kidney disease. They could have been saved – but instead they were allowed to die.

This is the harsh reality of the Tory 'cuts'. The National Health Service is suffering from a chronic deficiency of funds. This has resulted not only in a shortage of kidney machines; but it also means that hospitals cannot afford operating costs. The situation is further worsened by a lack of trained staff and working space.

There is money which could be used to save British lives – such as the £974 million given away last year in 'overseas aid' to ungrateful Black dictatorships. All we received in return for this was abuse and belittlement, as well as an increased number of coloured immigrants.

The fact that taxpayers' money is squandered in this fashion, whilst British people are allowed to die, is nothing short of a national scandal.

The National Front, unlike the Tory and Labour parties, demands that the NHS should have all the funds it needs in order to care for the welfare of our people.

COMMUNISM AND CAPITALISM: THE TWO DEADLY TWINS

READERS of Nationalism Today will be well aware of this magazine's anti-communist and anti-capitalist stance. Ever since the publication of issue one, NT has pulled no punches in its fight against these two alien enemies of British Nationalism.

However, because of the apparent controversy caused by some of the articles in past issues, it has become necessary to clarify our position.

We ARE completely opposed to the false socialism propagated by the Marxist Left. We ARE completely opposed to the alien doctrine of capitalism in whatever guise it presents itself.

However, we most definitely ARE NOT against the ancient Nordic notion of private ownership and private enterprise. In fact, we believe the policies we propound to be the last bastion of free ownership and free enterprise against the continual monopolisation brought about by capitalism and communism.

In order to state our position as definitively as possible, there are a number of articles in this issue which may be of interest to those who are still puzzled.

The article on page eight entitled A Definition Of Capitalism should be studied carefully. It states, in as much detail as space permits, the reason for our total opposition to capitalism.

The Bankrupt Worker* on page four shows how the policies of Thatcher's Government are putting hundreds of small firms out of business. It also compares the plight of the industrious small businessman with decadent members of the aristocracy.

Wall Street Money – Moscow Tanks* and Arabs Expose US–Soviet Deal on pages six and seven reveal the help being given by Wall Street Capitalists to the Communists in Eastern Europe.

Finally, A Call For Economic Nationalism on page 20 briefly outlines some of the policies which would be implemented by a Nationalist Government.

MULTI-RACIALISM: The Collapse Continues

AN INTERESTING article appeared in the Guardian newspaper recently. Entitled 'Growing militancy in the pit of disillusion' it focussed on the racist Asian Youth Movement and their attitude to White society.

The Asian Youth Movement was formed 3 years ago in Southall after the murder of Asian student Gurdip Chaggar (ironically stabbed to death by a multi-racial gang). It boasts 600 members in Southall alone, and receives £20,000 from the Commission for Racial Equality in order to preach anti-White hatred.

Some idea of the AYM's views is gained by the tone and content of its propaganda and the comments of its spokesmen. There is talk about the impossibility of multi-racialism and the need for organised violence against Whites. Founder member, Manjit Singh, summed up their attitude when he bluntly stated: "We hate Whites."

So much for passivity and good behaviour which, if we are to believe the Race Relations Industry, are the virtues of Britain's Asian community.

The Asian Youth Movement is, however, right in one respect when it talks of the impossibility of multi-racialism and the probability of racial violence.

The multi-racial society is collapsing. Asian youth is getting organised for the impending Race War. White youth must unite under the banner of the National Front to defend our community from Immigrant attacks, and to achieve our eventual aim of a 'Britain for the British'.

IMMIGRANTS AND IMMIGRATION

LABOUR COUNCIL ADOPTION POLICY: "IMMIGRANTS ONLY"

ALTHOUGH the Marxist-run London Borough of Lambeth does its best to encourage race-mixing for Whites, it takes the opposite view for Blacks.

This is shown by the Borough's adoptions policy. Whilst Lambeth is covered with posters urging Whites to adopt half-caste and other non-White offspring, the Borough's Social Services Department is helping Blacks set up a "family unit" to find Black families to foster and adopt Black children. The "New Black Families Unit", run by Mr. John Small, is "committed" to helping Black couples find children of their own race to adopt, and has the full backing of Lambeth's Marxist Labour Council.

If anyone tried to do the same for White children, they would be prosecuted by the Race Board.

BLACK DOCTORS NOT NEEDED

ALTHOUGH the Department of Employment claims that there are only 406 out-of-work doctors, the British Medical Association says that many more are counted in unemployment figures simply as "non-specific white collar workers". The result is that unemployment among doctors is disguised and is really far higher than the government will admit.

The BMA is therefore pressing for the number of medical students to be cut. A better solution would be to increase the number of British medical students and give them the jobs at present done by immigrants. If these second rate coloured doctors were repatriated, it would help their own countries, which are desperate for trained medical workers.

More important, it would create jobs for British doctors, and give patients the reassurance of being looked after by doctors whom they know are well trained and with whom they can identify.

COMMON MARKET

EURO-GERMS THREATEN OUR CHILDREN

THE European Commission is threatening Britain with legal action in the 'European Court of Justice' to forcibly flood our country with dirty Continental milk. The Eurocrats have presented Britain with an ultimatum: let in foreign milk or be taken to 'Court'. At present, strict British health laws keep out virtually all foreign milk on the grounds that it is insufficiently clean and germ free. Unlike France, which always ignores 'Euro-court' decisions it doesn't like, our Government is expected to do as it is told. The result will be the flooding of the British market with French milk swarming with the germs of killer diseases like TB and brucellosis and unpleasant ailments like salmonella (food poisoning). Children will be especially threatened.

Obviously, the Government should put the lives of British children before the dictates of Brussels bureaucrats and the greed of French farmers, but no doubt Thatcher and Co. are determined that we should all become 'good Europeans' even if it kills us.

British trawler forced to dump catch

A DEVON fishing boat was forced to dump £5,000 worth of herring into the sea during December because of a Common Market regulation.

The herring were caught accidentally by the Brixham trawler Sarah Jayne while it was fishing for sprats off Torquay. Skipper David Hurford could not release the catch till he got it on board, but by then the fish were dead and so he returned to Brixham.

There he tried to get permission to give the herrings – which are high protein food – away to hospitals. But he was told the EEC quota regulations prohibit catching and landing herring, and he was ordered to dump the dead fish back in the sea.

On the same day that this incident happened, EEC commissioners were investigating reports that French trawlers were ignoring the ban and unloading herring at Boulogne.

TORIES GIVE £13 MILLION TO BUILD ROADS IN KENYA

THOUSANDS of young children in Britain live in constant danger from the increasing volume of traffic pouring through the hearts of our towns and cities. Government cuts have stopped the construction of many relief roads and by-passes. The reason, we are told, is shortage of money. Yet the government has just announced that Britain is to give more than £13 million towards improving a major road in Kenya.

Most MP's, of course, can afford to live in quiet, secluded suburbs and do not have to worry about their children having to cross busy roads on their way to and from school.

• The Minister for Overseas Development, Mr. Neil Martin, has said that Britain gave away £974 million in foreign aid in 1979. This compared with "only" £759 million in 1978.

DRUG SMUGGLING: A SOLLY STATE OF AFFAIRS

CHEMIST Sydney Solly Frankel, 48, thought he could make a little extra money by importing amphetamine powder from Switzerland and selling the drug illegally in Britain. By the time he had bought a Rolls Royce and a £150,000 house in exclusive St. Johns Wood Park, he must have felt as high as the people taking his drugs. But he was brought down to earth by a 30 month prison sentence at the Old Bailey.

The judge described Mr. Frankel as a 'thoroughly dishonest and fraudulent man" and went on to fine him £115,000 and £7,500 costs.

ECONOMIC AND SOCIAL

TWO FACES OF BRITAIN

1) THE WEALTHY PARASITE

THE majority of young working class Whites in Britain's inner cities are racialist and sympathetic to the policies of the National Front. It is this fact which has led the mass media to whip up a hate campaign against "football hooligans" and skinheads. The resulting hysteria has had a particularly strong effect on the police and courts, who have taken every opportunity to persecute these youngsters with physical violence and heavy fines and sentences.

Yet while British "justice" has seen fit to imprison young Whites for trivial "offences" such as putting up stickers or being rowdy at football matches, other people have been more fortunate. Black muggers and rapists have received ludicrously short sentences and Communist attacks on patriots have been ignored.

It is also clear that the forces of "law and order", while happy to impose ferocious sentences on ordinary working Britons, are rather less harsh on the "ruling class". Mrs. Anne Ker-Lindsay, for example, is the daughter of Lord Bradbury and is married to a dealer in precious metals. In spite of their wealth, the couple were not satisfied and went on a "wildly dishonest" spree at Harrods. The Ker-Lindsays obtained by deception and forgery a video recorder and other luxury goods valued at over £2,500. But in spite of this display of pure greed, the couple were given only a six months' suspended sentence.

Nor is this an isolated case. When police raided a Wiltshire commune where Roddy Llewellyn once entertained Princess Margaret, they found cocaine and 292 cannabis plants. Yet Sarah Ponsonby, daughter of the heir to the Earl of Besborough, was fined only £110. The other three defendants, including a film maker and a "sculptor" named Vischer, were fined a mere £190 between them.

This group of criminal degenerates complained that the police raid "came as a great shock and upset." So will a National Front government!

SARAH PONSONBY

2) THE BANKRUPT WORKER

PEOPLE who attack the National Front criticism of Capitalist monopolies as "anti-free enterprise" simply do not realise that the two things are completely different and incompatible.

In Margaret Thatcher's 'laissez-faire' Capitalist Britain, small-businesses are in fact closing down at a record rate. Pictured, left, is 73 year old widow, Mrs. Randall, owner of a 100-year-old family cake factory in New Cross, London. The dozen people employed by the firm were recently given pieces of a special centenary cake – along with their redundancy notices.

This is just one of the hundreds of small businesses being forced to close down or sell out to their giant competitors. More and more of Britain's wealth is coming under the control of fewer and fewer super-Capitalists. The end result will be a completely centralised economy with no more room for individual freedom and initiative than there is in Soviet Russia.

SOCIAL SECURITY SWINDLE

THE PEOPLE who can least afford it are paying the price of the Government's policies. Faced with a crisis of its own making, Thatcher's Government demands sacrifices – and it seems that the sick, the poor, the old, the jobless and the disabled are expected to bear further hardship.

The new social security rates introduced at the end of November effectively mean a reduced standard of living over the next year for Britain's 9 million pensioners, 600,000 long-term sick and disabled, and 2.3 million unemployed and their families. For due to the payments being delayed by a fortnight, and because the increases are linked below the rate of inflation, they will deprive a pensioner couple of nearly £120 over the next year; take about £100 from a disabled married man; and steal nearly £80 from an unemployed couple.

Whilst the Tories are busy pinching the pennies of pensioners, the sick, and the unemployed, it is noticeable that they are not touching the exorbitant profits being made by the Banks.

Commented Ruth Lister, director of the Child Poverty Action Group: "This is the first deliberate cut in benefits since the 1930s. The unemployed, the sick, the aged and children – those least able to bear a cut in living standards – are being robbed to safeguard the better off."

HERITAGE AND DESTINY

Heritage and Destiny is an independent quarterly magazine devoted to the study and promotion of Western culture and civilisation.

Founded in the Spring of 1980, its first two issues have included articles on early British Socialism, the Nordic as an ideal, the art of Georg Sluyterman van Langeweyde, the challenge of outer space, sociobiology, British roots, and traditional British folk song.

NORTHERN IRELAND

ULSTER—THE TRUE FACE OF THE 'BRITISH' PRESS

THE liberalisation of the British news media has by now reached such a stage that the slightest hint of patriotic sentiment in the pages of the national press must be treated with the utmost scepticism and suspicion. Such is it with the phoney shrieks of outrage that have accompanied the murder of every British soldier in Ulster. How then can the British press, which has called the murderers of Lord Mountbatten "evil bastards", be accused of being pro-Republican?

Despite being an influence over the minds and opinions of its readers, a newspaper which alienates itself completely from the commonly held views of the masses will cease to have any credibility in the minds of those masses. For any newspaper to openly declare its support for the actions of Republican groups such as the IRA would be suicidal as far as that newspaper's sales were concerned. Expression of horror over the killing and maiming of innocent people in Ulster, however, if carefully manipulated, can actually be used to justify total capitulation. This may explain the attitude of the Daily Mirror when it concludes that the best way to stop the killings is in fact to withdraw the troops, which of course is exactly what the IRA and other Republican groups have been demanding for years.

BRITISH WITHDRAWAL

It is an unfortunate fact that a large proportion of the British public would like to see Britain pulling out of Northern Ireland and, to use a much echoed phrase, "let them all get on with it." But are these people supporters of Irish Republicanism? Is it a genuine belief in the right of the Irish Republic to annex the province of Ulster that motivates such sentiment among the majority of advocates of British withdrawal? Of course not. The huge majority of such people (excepting of course Irish Republicans, the Marxist Left, and other degenerate tendencies such as the Troops Out Movement) believe, in their ignorance, that to withdraw the troops is actually the patriotic thing to do! This is a misinterpretation on the part of many people which the press does not seem too eager to correct.

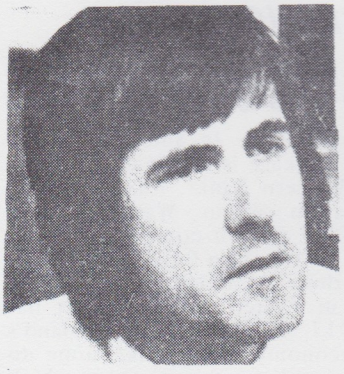
MORALE OF THE MASSES

When a nation is fighting a war, and Britain is fighting a war in Northern Ireland, it is the duty of the Government and of the established order of that nation to keep up the morale of the masses, not to misinform them or to sow the seeds of doubt in their minds as to the purpose of that war. There was no reluctance on the part of the 'national' press to rally public support for the war effort in 1939, and the war in Ulster is more important, not less, as it actually involves a threat to British sovereignty over a part of our own country. If the concern expressed by the press over atrocities by Republican terrorists is even remotely genuine, then it would be doing its utmost to convince the public of the correctness of British military presence in Ulster. If it isn't doing so, then why not?

THE MIRROR AND THE MURDERERS

THE FLEET was once an open sewer. Despite the building of Fleet Street over it, little has changed, as was shown well by an article appearing in the Daily Mirror for 26th November. In the regular column the Mirror's Editor revealingly grants him, well-heeled Trotskyite lunatic Paul Foot – who seems to have come down in the world since he was Editor of Socialist Worker – openly calls for the freeing of a convicted IRA murderer and bomber on "compassionate grounds".

Under the headling "Must She Die in Jail?", Foot launched into a heart-rending tale of how one Pauline McLaughlin is "wasting away" in Armagh jail. Apparently, having blown innocent people to bits and maimed others for life, poor Pauline is suffering from a "nervous stomach disease, which forces her to vomit up everything she eats." She is "wasting away".



Paul Foot

The charred remains of an IRA bomb victim

FEMALE TERROR-BOMBERS

The Establishment has already released two other female terror-bombers in similar circumstances. Hilary Creek of the "Angry Brigade" (a bunch of vicious upper-class Reds also known as "Debs' Army") and Marion Price, heroine of the heroic Provos' 1973 campaign, in which a little boy had his leg blown off. Although supposedly "at death's door", both recovered with suspicious speed on release and are now back in best bombing condition. Mirrorman Comrade Foot argues that the same must be done in this case.

He says, "The case for Pauline McLaughlin's release has nothing to do with politics or the offences (murder and bombings) for which she was convicted. It is based on ordinary human compassion and decency." What "human compassion and decency" do Pauline and her IRA friends show when they shoot children in the back, cover babies in burning petrol, and reduce innocent people out for a quiet drink to what an eye-witness of the Birmingham pub blast described as "mewling, twitching lumps of flayed flesh"?

MURDERING SLAG

But it is not surprising that Paul Foot wants the murdering slag McLaughlin set free to slay and maim again. As Britain stood appalled by the IRA's Birmingham bombings, which brought the full horror of Republican violence to the mainland, Paul Foot told SWP meetings that "we should not be afraid to cry 'Support the IRA', no matter how difficult it may become." It might be very difficult in the presence of those who have seen Mr. Foot's murdering friends in action or lost loved ones at their hands.

It may be just a little more surprising that one of Britain's biggest circulation newspapers should see fit to lend its pages to Paul Foot's cries of "Support the IRA". Then again, looking at the filth and lies which spew forth, day in, day out, from the Fleet Street sewer, perhaps it isn't surprising at all.

ESTONIAN YOUTH MARCH FOR FREEDOM

THE struggles of Eastern Europe against Soviet tyranny are not confined to Poland. Thousands of school-children have repeatedly marched to demand freedom in tiny Russian-occupied Estonia.

The most recent demonstration of Estonian courage came when over 2,000 students, aged 15 to 18, marched through the capital, Tallinn, under the now illegal blue-black-white national flag. They demanded freedom and the repatriation of the thousands of Russian, often Mongoloid, immigrants who have been brought in to destroy their culture and race.

Hundreds have been arrested, but the eventual liberation of Estonia, and indeed of all Eastern Europe, is inevitable. As long as a people retain their national identity and pride, even the most repressive foreign regime can only hold them down for so long. Hundreds of years of European history show clearly that the idea of the Nation, with its own distinctive culture, traditions and people, is the strongest force for political freedom in the world.

WHAT POLISH WORKERS FACE NOW . . .

WALL ST. MONEY—MOSCOW TANKS

THE US government has tried to stop anti-Communist workers in American trade unions sending money to help the free trade union movement in Poland. Mr. Edmund Muskie, at the time Secretary of State, warned the president of the 13 million strong AFL-CIO that the union's "Polish Fund" could be counter-productive.

Yet at the same time, President Carter was asking other Western leaders to give a "sympathetic response" to any appeal for help from the Polish Communist Party.

Although Poland already owes billions of dollars, the Establishment Daily Telegraph has admitted that more "Western aid is already in the pipeline and two weeks ago 10 Western Bankers, including representatives from British and American Banks, extended a $325 million credit. In addition a $670 million credit package is due from a consortium of 25 Western Banks. Furthermore a Polish delegation is in Washington to negotiate a $675 million commodity credit for purchases of American farm products."

So "American" Capitalism is helping Communism in Eastern Europe, as it has ever since 1917. By propping up Poland's ramshackle economy, the Banks hope to prevent a Nationalist workers' rising which would throw out not only the Red tsars of Moscow, but also the Wall Street multi-nationals which have set up enormous cheap labour factories in Eastern Europe. Capitalism and Communism are part of a single International System, and the struggle of the Poles for national freedom is our struggle as well.

TOP FRENCH RED STRANGLES WIFE

LOUIS Althusser, the leading Marxist "philosopher", suited lunatic actions to his crank views when on 16th November, he strangled his wife in a "fit of depression". Whether this "fit" was brought on by the failure of yet another attempt to fit the square peg of Marxist philosophy into the round hole of Reality is not yet clear, but after confessing to the murder of his wife he has been locked in a lunatic asylum whilst three psychiatrists try to discover if he can plead insanity at the subsequent trial.

Althusser is said to have "a history of mental problems", as is evident from the fact that since 1960 he has been widely regarded as one of the chief exponents in the West of the Marxist cult, the political equivalent of Flat Earthism. Despite – or because of – his nutty ideas, he has been secretary-general of France's elite Ecole Normale Superieure, responsible for training the country's top Civil Servants, since 1948. It is, however, understood that wife-strangling is rather frowned upon even in French Leftist academic circles, and so his future in this key post is in some doubt.

FRENCH GOVERNMENT "SENDS THEM BACK"

AS unemployment in France climbed above 1½ million, the French government decided, to "send them back". France and Algeria recently signed an agreement on mutual action to encourage hundreds of thousands of Algerian immigrants to go home.

Under the agreement, France is to provide repatriation grants and training for skilled workers needed in Algeria, which will in turn take back thousands of unwanted immigrants.

France will benefit by a much needed reduction in unemployment and in the violent crime associated with coloured immigration. Algeria will gain financially and by the influx of workers who are well-educated and skilled compared with the native population.

Of course, when the National Front suggests that Britain should do the same thing with our millions of Asians and Blacks, we are attacked as "Nazis". The truth is that there is nothing "Nazi" about repatriation. As the French government has realised, it is just common sense.

BED AND BREAKFAST

EURO-M.P.'s, already overpaid and under-worked, have voted themselves the use of a luxury hotel at a rent of about £40,000 a year, each!

The £20 million hotel was built as a "speculative venture" by the city of Strasbourg and is jointly owned by the French government. The European Parliament has agreed to pay the rent so that its members can each have an office and the use of a plush bedroom with bathroom, shower and couch.

One Italian MP admited, "This parliament is now the most costly, per member, of any in the world – and at the same time the least influential."

With no work to do and with perks like that, is it any wonder that most Tory, Liberal and Labour politicians are "committed Europeans"?

ARABS EXPOSE U.S. – SOVIET DEAL

A RECENT semi-official Saudi Arabian publication has revealed ominous evidence that American Capitalists and Soviet Communists have agreed a deal whereby they share a monopoly of control over the vast oil reserves of the Middle East. A recent edition of Saudi Report released information gathered by Saudi Intelligence about a secret agreement reached between President Carter and Soviet dictator Brezhnev at a meeting in Vienna in June 1979. According to this agreement, by 1982 the flow of Iranian oil would go to the Soviet Empire and that of Saudi oil to the US and other Western capitalist states. Both superpowers agreed not to effectively oppose each other's military presence in the Middle East, and to continue to divide up the area between themselves. The Saudis claim that US neutrality in the Iran/Iraq war is also part of the deal.

Such a degree of harmony between two apparent enemies may appear strange to the superficial observer, but it comes as no surprise to racial nationalists. For many years we have been pointing out the behind-the-scenes links between the super-plutocrats of New York (America's real capital) and the super-bureaucrats of Moscow. These links date back to the financing of the Bolshevik Revolution by a consortium of Wall Street bankers and carry on to the present day. The machinery of Soviet power is only kept going by massive imports of Western technology and the slaves of the Soviet Empire are kept from starving by massive imports of North American wheat. Occasional "anti-Communist" noises for public consumption by Western leaders fade into insignificance beside the concrete realities of deals such as ICI's recent construction of eight giant petro-chemical factories in the Soviet Union, and President Carter's approval on November 19th for the sale of £500 million worth of the latest US machinery to the Soviets to enable them to build a giant natural gas pipeline from Siberia to Central Europe.

Deeds such as the subsequent sale of tens of millions of tons of American, Canadian and European grain to the Soviets mean more than words such as Carter's loud mouthings about "sanctions in protest at the Afghan invasion."

So the Saudis have simply discovered for themselves what we have been saying all along. After all, it is common sense that American Capitalism and Soviet State Capitalism should have a common interest in keeping down the White workers which both systems exploit, and in making sure that nationalists, be they British, Polish or Arab, do not upset their cosy carve-up of our World.

JAMAICA GOING TO POT

JAMAICA'S new Prime Minister, Edward Seaga, admitted in an American TV interview on November 23rd that his country, £625 million in debt to International Bankers, relied on the illegal growing and export of marijuana as its "lifeline economically". He further admitted that Jamaican police "only occasionally enforced" laws against the dope trade.

That Jamaica should have become financially dependent on drug smuggling is no great surprise. Its only other notable export lately appears to have been generous helpings of race rioters, muggers and petty criminals to enliven the streets of Britain, Canada and elsewhere. Such is the disrepute in which Jamaica seems to be held around the World that a mistaken report by the Associated Press news agency alleging that the country's Prime Minister had also said that his Government was relying on the dope trade and smuggling pot into the USA to rebuild the island's economy was reprinted without demur or comment in several prominent World newspapers, including the London Times. After all, official endorsement of drug smuggling is exactly the sort of thing to be expected of non-White "Third World" countries, others of which have officially involved themselves in hijacking, piracy, slavery, heroin racketeering, the ransoming of hostages by the million and mass murder.

JAMAICAN DEMOCRACY

WHEN the natives of this happy island are not too stoned to see each other they turn to their other national hobby – killing each other. Deadly gang battles and riots frequently break out in the Kingston ghettos.

The recent General Election provided the latest opportunity to test the illegal weapons which pour in from Cuba and America. Britain gave the Jamaican government £1 million in foreign aid to prevent fraud and repair enough police cars to keep the peace during the election. In spite of this, however, several candidates and a government minister were shot dead and over 500 people were murdered in clashes between political opponents. Jamaica's population is only 2 million, so a similar death rate in Britain would have left over 12,500 dead!

Since independence in 1962, the Jamaican economy has collapsed, food shortages have become normal and unemployment has risen to 40%. The latest election bloodbath has only confirmed that these people are incapable of ruling themselves and bodes ill for Britain, which may one day have more Jamaicans than Jamaica.

A DEFINITION OF CAPITALISM

ONE OF THE MOST encouraging features of the National Front's Five Year Plan is the call for extensive ideological development. Few would dispute that this can only strengthen the Nationalist Movement for the struggles ahead.

However, now that such a commitment to the development of ideology has been made, it is to be hoped that some of the past shortcomings of NF policy can be rectified. The most obvious of these is the apparent inability of Nationalists to comprehend the real meaning of capitalism.

There has always been confusion within Nationalist circles as to what our attitude to capitalism should be. Although most people have grasped that International Finance is an enemy that has got to be defeated, many still cannot bring themselves to condemn capitalism outright. This hesitation is due primarily to the NF's past association with the so-called "right", which sees communism as the overriding, all-important number one enemy. These short-sighted "right-wingers" have drawn the simplistic conclusion that because the communists oppose capitalism we must support it. Such a conclusion is so idiotically shallow as to be ridiculous. On that basis one might as well conclude that we should support higher unemployment because the Reds want the "right to work"!

This complete lack of understanding as to what capitalism actually is necessitates an article which is designed specifically to define capitalism. It is therefore the purpose of this article to do just that; to show how capitalism has developed and what it has become, and ultimately to show that nationalism and not communism is the only alternative to the corrupt capitalist economic system.

WHAT CAPITALISM IS NOT

In order to comprehend exactly what capitalism is, it is first necessary to understand what it is not.

Capitalism is not the system whereby private enterprise and individual initiative are able to express themselves and prosper. On the contrary, capitalism has the effect of stifling individual enterprise.

Neither is it true to say that small family businesses and corner shops are the basic economic units in a capitalist society. In fact, capitalism has been responsible for the destruction of all types of small family businesses. Tradesmen, craftsmen and farmers had prospered since time immemorial prior to the advent of capitalism. But since the dawning of the capitalist era, all of these healthy "private enterprises" have been gobbled up in the path of industrial and financial monopolisation.

In order to understand fully how capitalism has led to the destruction of private enterprise and individual initiative, we must trace the development of capitalism to its very roots.

MARXIST THEORY OF HISTORY INCORRECT

In Britain, the roots of capitalism can be traced back to the practice of usury during the thirteenth century. This fact exposes the Marxist interpretation of history as being fundamentally inaccurate.

According to Marx, capitalism replaced feudalism as the dominant socio-economic system with the advent of the Industrial Revolution in the eighteenth century. This is an over-simplification of the historical facts, largely neglecting as it does any reference to usury and the evolution of the banking system. This major flaw in Marxist teaching is one of the main reasons why communism is unable to eradicate the root causes of capitalism.

JEWISH USURY AND THE RISE OF THE BANKING SYSTEM

The importance of usury to the growth of capitalism cannot be over emphasised. It was the expansion and growth of usury which eventually led to the birth and development of the banking system. The eventual acceptance of usury as a legitimate part of economic life led to the growth of banking throughout the whole of Europe.

In England, rudimentary forms of banking probably began with the scriveners of Elizabeth's time, but it was the goldsmiths of the 17th Century who were most responsible for the development of what eventually became the modern banking system.

At first, these goldsmiths merely acted as caretakers of money. They possessed strong-rooms which provided a safe repository for money and valuables for those who were afraid of robbers.

However, these goldsmiths soon began to realise that although some people were requiring repayment of their money others were continually depositing more, and there was always a large sum on hand. They therefore began to make loans of this money at interest. This money-lending by the goldsmiths began a process which was to put the control of the money supply and ultimately the control of the whole economy into the hands of alien bankers.

The economic dominance of the banks was finalised in 1694 with the foundation of the Bank of England, which was given the sole right of note issue. From that moment onwards, the control of the flow of credit by Finance Capitalism was ensured.

DECAY OF THE GUILDS

Another important step towards the growth of capitalism came with the degeneration of the guilds in the sixteenth century.

In its heyday the guild system fulfilled a very important role in the socio-economic life of the nation. But it degenerated due tc human fallibility and corruption and left the way open for further capitalist growth.

This quote by Lipson explains the full importance and the inevitable implications which arose from the decline of the guild system:—

"The essence of the guild system lay in the control of industry by the industrial workers themselves, through an elected authority appointed by them. In the capitalist system, on the other hand, this control is transferred to men who stand outside the ranks of the industrial workers, and are frequently in conflict with them."

The degeneration of the guild system meant that the guidance and control of industry passed from the hands of the craftsmen themselves into the hands of the early capitalists.

In fact, just as the acceptance of usury heralded the birth of Finance Capitalism, then the decline of the guilds marked the early beginnings of Industrial Capitalism.

Thus, with the decay of guild socialism and the tolerant acceptance of usury and banking, the age of capitalism began.

The agrarian and industrial revolutions and the migration of the peasantry to the towns all helped to accelerate the growth of the capitalist system, and by the end of the eighteenth century the whole face of society had changed completely.

The advent of capitalism brought misery and starvation to the majority while a small minority grew very rich. Whole sections of the population were delivered into a form of wage slavery which was morally and ethically barbarous.

The famous poet Oliver Goldsmith condemned the rise of capitalism during this period, denouncing the new system as being immoral. In 1770 he wrote:

"Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

EFFECTS OF CAPITALISM

The evil effects of capitalism, however, are not confined to the early days of its development. Most of the social and economic ills which afflict Western society today can be blamed on its further expansion.

Capitalism is, by its very nature, internationalist. It has sought to break down national barriers in the interests of profits and power ever since the sons of Mayer Rothschild founded Banking Houses in London, Berlin, Paris, Vienna and Naples in the early 19th Century. Since then, International Capitalists have spared no effort in their attempts to dissolve nation states in favour of a Super-Capitalist World Economy.

Capitalism is destroying small businesses of every type because of its relentless monopolisation of the economy. Multi-national corporations are tightening their grip on the economic life of individual nation states, squeezing small firms out of business in order to seize a greater share of the market. Unless this process of monopolisation is stopped, more and more small firms will be gobbled up by the expanding multi-nationals. The final result of this process will be the complete ownership and control of whole national economies by a handful of International Capitalists.

Finance Capitalists are able to control the economies of individual nations through their control of the issue of credit. They can cause inflation and unemployment just by altering the flow of credit into the economy. Through this control of credit, International Financiers are able to exert complete control over National Governments.

Ultimately, however, it is not only the internationalising effect of modern day capitalism which is evil, but the whole capitalist economic system. Any system which puts the control and ownership of the means of production into the hands of a few bankers and industrialists has got to be immoral.

Gregor Strasser summed up the unethical nature of capitalism in 1926 when he wrote:–

"The capitalist economic system with its exploitation of the economically weak, with its robbery of the workers' labour power, with its unethical way of appraising human beings by the number of things and the amount of money they possess, instead of by their internal value and achievements must be replaced by a new and just economic system."

COMMUNISM IS NOT THE ANSWER

Once we have accepted that capitalism "must be replaced by a new and just economic system", the problem of deciding upon an alternative system presents itself.

The most well known advocate of an alternative economic system is of course Karl Marx. However, a closer examination of Marxist principles will show that communism offers no alternative whatsoever to capitalism. In fact, a comparison between these two apparent alternatives exposes some remarkable similarities.

Communism, like capitalism, belives in an international world economy. An economy in which nation states have no role to play and in which a small group of super-economists rule the world.

Communism, like capitalism, believes wholeheartedly in multi-racialism and the mongrelisation of all the races of the world. Both of these so-called "alternatives" see racism as being incompatible with the true progress of the "world economy".

Communism, like capitalism, believes in the alien philosophy of materialism. The spiritual well-being of Nordic Man has been sacrificed over the last few hundred years by the relentless materialism of capitalist society. The Marxists, however, far from opposing the disastrous effects of materialism, support vehemently the continuation of this philosophy.

Communism, like capitalism, advocates the monopolisation of the economy. Both communists and capitalists alike believe in dispossessing the workers of the control of the means of production, and both believe that this control should be put into the hands of a small group of economists.

Communism, like capitalism, thrives on the alien doctrine of liberalism. Under both systems liberalism will flourish, creating havoc with the traditional modes of life of the Nordic populace. Under the corrupt, money-worshipping capitalist system family life has been crumbling amidst the perpetual onslaught of Jewish decadence. Under the communist system this process would continue unhindered, due to the shared belief by both systems that a strong family unit is an obstacle to the fulfillment of their common aims.

Under close scrutiny then, it can be seen that communism is not in any way an alternative to capitalism. The differences between the two systems, where they exist at all, are so small as to be negligible.

NATIONALISM IS THE ONLY ALTERNATIVE

It is evident from what has already been discussed that Marxism is nothing more than capitalism's alien twin brother.

Further examination will show that only through a comprehensive programme of Social Nationalism is the real alternative to be found.

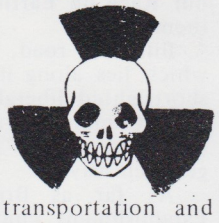
Nationalists see the preservation of the Nation State as a necessary safeguard against the further growth of capitalism. As we have seen, capitalism requires the breaking down of national barriers if it is to continue to grow. International Financiers and multi-national corporations require the unhindered, international movement of labour and capital if they are to become even more powerful. The maintenance and strengthening of independent nation states will, therefore, effectively stunt the growth of International Capitalism.

Nationalists also advocate the preservation of the White race and demand the termination of all forms of multi-racialism. This is also necessary in order to ensure the maintenance of nation states. A nation is not only a geographic entity, it is also very much a biological entity and, as such, the purity of the race is necessary to the survival of nations.

Nationalists regard all forms of capitalism as evil – be it the alien capitalism of Wall Street, or the State Capitalism of Moscow. In view of this, nationalists seek the dissolution of all sectionally owned monopolies. These monopolies will either be divided into smaller privately-owned units or, where this is not possible, they will be socialised and handed over to the work-force.

These various aspects of our ideology show indisputably that nationalism and not communism is the only alternative to the alien doctrine of capitalism. Only when these principles of Social Nationalism are fully implemented will the twin evils of capitalism and communism be destroyed once and for all.

THE DANGERS OF NUCLEAR POWER



THE growing arms race and a number of accidents in nuclear power stations have made nuclear power a matter for popular debate. Nationalists will no doubt know that it is essential for the security of our Country that Britain possesses nuclear weapons and any ideas on disarmament are to be opposed.

Unfortunately, however, there is a tendency among many nationalists to be automatically pro-nuclear power simply because the main anti-nuclear lobby is run and controlled by the Left. The Left's involvement is unfortunate but with careful infiltration could be reversed. This would leave a Nationalist run anti-nuclear campaign with the trendy liberal policies weeded out. More emphasis could then be put on the effects of contamination and poisoning on the country and its inhabitants, rather than disarmament policies.

The recent 3 Mile Island incident has proved that nuclear reactors are unsafe and further investigation should be made into their development. But instead the government has plans for more power stations of the same design (water cooled reactors) as the one in Pennsylvania, instead of the British Gas Cooled reactors which have a much lower incident rate than the American design. This is totally irresponsible and shows the government's shortsighted attitude on the nuclear issue.

Another important factor in the nuclear power debate is the transportation and disposal of the dangerous plutonium waste. The waste is transported across land by railway and is a danger to all those who live along its route. It is then dumped in the depths of the ocean. Of course, we are assured it is low level radio active waste and is enclosed in concrete blocks. But the dumping of this waste has been going on for years and not only in this country but every country with nuclear reactors. What happens when the concrete blocks are eroded away or cracked and the waste is exposed to the sea? There is also the problem of high level waste which is stored in tanks next to the power stations. This waste is so dangerous that no safe way has yet been found to dispose of it. So there it sits, an easy target for terrorists, and in the event of war a prime target for destruction, as even using conventional weaponry the country could be laid waste by the bombing of these tanks.

The National Front is a party pledged to fight for a pure and healthy race along with a green and pleasant land in which to live. But if the present programme of nuclear expansion continues the British race may not be recognisably human, let alone racially pure. The NF should take a firm stand on the nuclear issue. Nuclear power is still in its infancy and should not be rushed but monitored carefully.

U.N. THREATENS THE FINAL FRONTIER

THE history of the White Race to date has been one of unchecked expansion. Our ancestors spread triumphantly first across Europe and then around the World, sweeping aside lesser breeds who stood in our way. Hand in hand with that expansion, unequalled by any other race, has gone a steady and equally unequalled advance in science and technology. Both these trends have found their highest expression so far in the conquest of Space. White men have walked on the Moon, landed robot observatories on Mars and, most recently, sent probes a thousand million miles to send back awe-inspiring photographs of Saturn. The road is open to manned space colonies, the exploitation of the virtually limitless resources of raw materials, energy reserves and industrial sites which await us throughout the Solar System, and, one day, to the stars and the settling of our Race on Earth-like worlds which circle them.

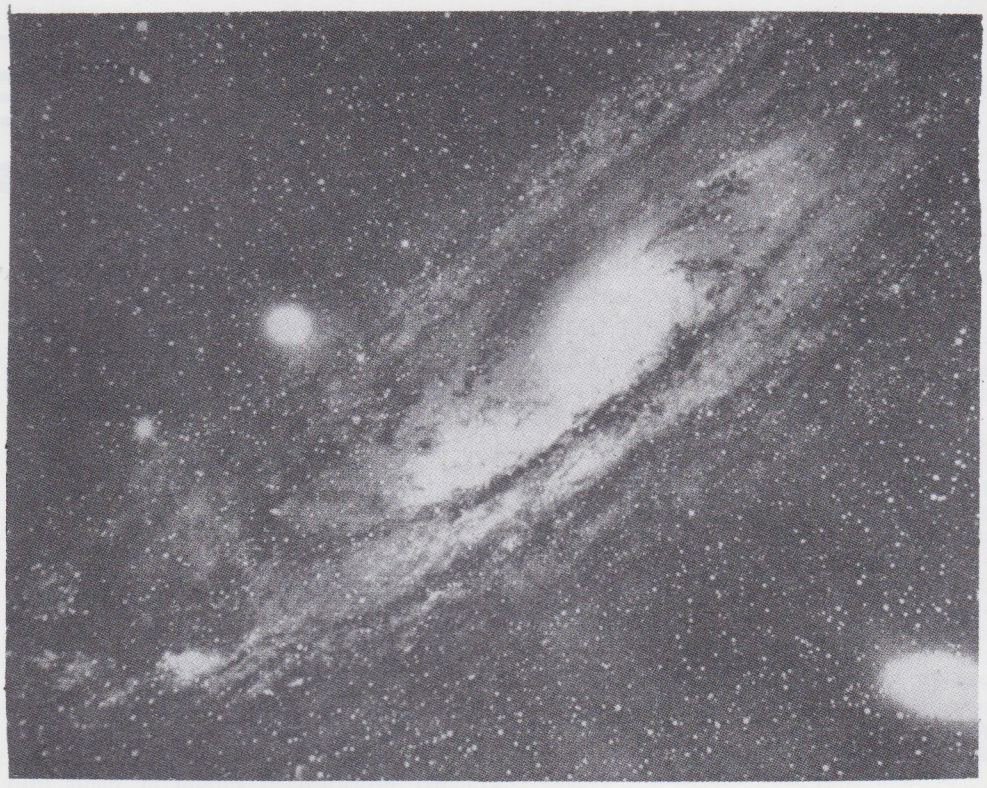
But that road, and the glorious destiny which lies along it, may yet be blocked if shortsighted liberals, blinkered UN bureaucrats, Communists and the endlessly proliferating swarms of "Third World" non-Whites get their way.

As far as Britain is concerned, our Establishment chickened out of the space adventure right at the start. We have never had a serious space programme, though we had the technology, resources and Australian launch facilities to build one. Instead, our Black Arrow launcher and planned MUSTARD space shuttle (ten years ahead of the US one) were aborted or never started and what space programme we did have merged into the useless pan-European ELDO/ESRO consortium, which has taken ten years to launch a couple of tiny satellites and is now a total shambles.

LIBERAL-REACTIONARY ALLIANCE

Now America's programme is menaced. An alliance of liberals who want the money wasted on millions of Blacks and Mexicans and reactionaries who want to keep it in the wallets of rich taxpayers like themselves have cut funding for space projects to the bone. Cuts pushed through by liberal and reactionary Senators and Congressmen robbed America of the fruits of her heroic Moon exploration. They axed the last three Apollo moon landings and wrecked plans to follow through the advance into Space with a manned Moonbase colony and manned Mars landing expedition by 1986.

The cuts also sabotaged the Space Shuttle, planned to provide cheap, routine spaceflight without throwing away most of the launch vehicle as happens with rockets like the Saturn V moonship. Inadequate funding has forced designers to cut corners and skimp. As a result, the Shuttle is plagued by problems. Its first launch date keeps being put back and it is costing more to correct design flaws than it would have done to avoid them by more thorough testing beforehand. The cuts have also forced America's NASA space agency to cancel nearly all new space probe launches planned for the 1980's. They even threaten to close down ground stations which receive information and pictures from the probes already in space, so that there may be no one listening when, after years of travelling, Voyager 2 sends back priceless scientific data and photos from the unexplored outer planets Uranus and Neptune. The US Government has cut $208 million from NASA's planned 1980 budget alone, and America's Space programme is now in dire trouble. Even when it does eventually get off the ground, the economy-size mini-Space Shuttle will be too small to launch interplanetary missions as originally planned.



Disregarding the wave of protests from young White Americans who have not lost the outward urge inborn in our Race, the coalition of senile reactionaries and 1960's vintage liberals in the US Congress, led by 'conservative' Senator William Proxmire, plough on with their steady gnawing away at America's future in Space.

U.N. 'TREATY'

Worldwide, the threat to our Race's hope of escaping the trap of an increasingly non-White infested, polluted, resource-exhausted Earth comes from the United Nations. Here the so-called "Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space", a Soviet/"Third World" front, has produced a treaty called the "Agreement Governing the Activities of States on the Moon and Other Celestial Bodies". This "treaty", if ratified by the Western powers, would put the whole of the Solar System under the total control of the UN. In effect, this would prevent any Western nations from colonising Space, or exploiting the known mineral and energy reserves of the Moon and the rest of the Solar System, which we already have the technology to start doing by the 1980's. These reserves exceed thousands of times over the total, and increasingly exhausted, reserves of the Earth.

The "treaty" would also stop us moving our heavy, polluting industries off Earth into the safety of Space. It would provide any Earth Government, from the USSR to Uganda, with an unlimited right of inspection of all installations in Space, and would give the UN the right to bar any nation from Space and use military force to implement that or any other decision. It would also forbid all commercial operations in Space, and would mean that any minerals mined in Space would belong, not to the people or nation which mined them, but to the whole of the UN. In other words, African barbarians who have never and will never get past the tops of their native jungle trees by their own efforts will be able to grab the fruits of our labour and our inventive genius. As a number of experts have rightly said, if the pioneering of America had been conducted on this basis, the continent would still be in the hands of the Red Indians!

WAR MACHINE IN SPACE

Obviously, the dusky-hued rabble who make up the majority of the UN General Assembly are backing this treaty because it gives them their only hope of sharing in the spoils of the conquest of Space. But the Soviets have their own Space programme, which has been puttering along, slowly, on copied Western technology. Ten years behind the Americans, but still progressing steadily. They back the Space Treaty for far more sinister reasons. They back it because it puts Space in the hands of the UN – and they control the UN. The Soviets don't care if it blocks the exploitation of the mineral and energy resources of Space, because they don't have the technology to exploit them anyway – not for the next fifty years at least. They are playing a very different game.

The Soviets know that there is more to be won from Space than minerals, metal ores and cheap energy. There is also power. There is an old military principle, "seize the high ground," and Space is the ultimate high ground. Any nation which establishes a self-supporting base in Space, out of reach of nuclear missiles or other retaliation, knows that its people and its ideology will survive any war, nuclear or otherwise. If it is the only nation in that position, it can dictate terms to the world under threat of destroying civilisation on the ground in a devastating nuclear exchange whilst its space bases survive to carry on and perhaps impose order on the ruined Earth. More, anyone who controls Earth orbital space, and/or the lunar surface, has the same advantage a man at the top of a well enjoys over another at the bottom: he can drop things on him, and is fairly safe from objects thrown back up. Orbital or Moon bases can be used to drop bombs on or fire laser or "particle-beam" ray guns (which both the US and Soviets are now developing) anywhere in the world, faster and more accurately than Earth-based weapons. The Soviets, with their 'hunter-killer' satellites and their permanently manned Salyut space stations are in the process of building a war machine capable of conquering Earth from Space.

INCALCULABLE RESOURCES

If the Americans ratify the Space Treaty, the Soviets know that the West, barred by UN order from winning profits out of it, may well stay out of Space altogether and let the US Space programme die.

If the Soviets do build a war machine in Space, they are not likely to use it to conquer the World, as simplistic Tory 'anti-Communists' might fear. They would gain nothing, since their Marxist economy is and always has been parasitically dependent upon that of the Capitalist West, as the Soviet leaders well know. Nor is it likely that they, themselves, would or could use their control of near-Earth space to expand the race outwards and seize the incalculable resources on and beyond the Moon for the White Man. Marxist states are incapable of developing the advanced and advancing technology needed to do this. The contrast between the spectacularly successful US planetary probes and the generally totally failed Soviet ones is a good demonstration of this. However, if they could not get out into Space in a big way, they would make sure that no one else would be allowed to either. And, of course, they could and would use their war machine beyond the sky to make certain that any revolt of the serfs through racial nationalism against the Capitalist-Communist World Order would be nipped in the bud.

"NOTHING LIKE IT"

Fortunately for the future of the World, the idea of looking down an orbiting gun barrel in Communist hands doesn't appeal to many Western Capitalists much either, and it seems likely that America will refuse to ratify the Space Treaty, leading to its collapse – this time. Not that America will change her policy of winding down her Space effort. Looking at the situation of the US Space Programme today, the prestigious New Scientist magazine said on November 20th: "You have seen the scientific exploration of the Solar System: remember it well to tell your children, for they'll see nothing like it."

Not necessarily. The likely collapse of the UN Space Treaty has granted our Race a reprieve, a reprieve of which we must take full advantage. Never again must UN bureaucrats and Soviet commissars have a chance, with the aid of a non-White rabble, to close the way to the stars. A Nationalist Government in Britain or, if one is formed there first, anywhere else, must press ahead as quickly as possible with a dynamic Space programme. By seizing and exploiting the virtually unlimited resources beyond our World we will guarantee our freedom and the survival of our Nation and Race. We would also reap a harvest of incalculable wealth for every one of our people, offering them the chance of living in prosperity and harmony with the living Earth whilst the factories, mines and power stations producing such wealth circle cleanly far over their heads. More yet, we could offer to the most able and adventurous of our people the chance to take part in the most exciting and rewarding enterprise in history. Most important, we would take the next step towards the fulfilment of our skyward racial destiny.

U.S. ELECTION – BANKS WIN AGAIN

THE election of Ronald Reagan as President of the United States is nothing to rejoice about. "His" choice of running mate, George Bush – well known as a member of the "One World (ruled by us)" Rockefeller Establishment – was in itself enough to condemn the new President as yet another puppet of Finance Capitalism.

His economic policies already threaten to do to America what Margaret Thatcher's have done for Britain. A slump on that scale will have a disastrous effect not only on the US, but also on the economies of Europe. Most ludicrous of all Reagan's suggestions is that America should return to the Gold Standard. This system, whereby the value and quality of a nation's currency is determined by the amount of gold in its reserves, can only lead, as it did in Britain in the 1930's, to deflation, unemployment, bankruptcies and industrial collapse.

The only just basis for a nation's money supply is the productive capacity of its industry, agriculture and services. Only in this way can the people have the money to buy the goods which they can produce. The money supply must be determined by production, not the other way around. Reagan's policies will only lead to huge profits for the Banks and unemployment, degradation and misery for everyone else. But that, of course, is what Conservatives like Thatcher and Reagan are for.

"DE JUDGE COME OVER HERE . . ."

IN THIS column in our last issue, having reported sundry scenes of Negroid violence disturbing the gravity of the American Courtroom, we asked how long we on this side of the Atlantic would have to wait before we could share in this exciting and meaningful aspect of Soul Culture. The answer, it would seem, is not too long. For on October 23rd, in the course of the trial of 16 dusky-hued gentlemen charged with participating in an especially relevant manner in the Black Consciousness events in Bristol last April, proceedings were brought to an abrupt close by especially ethnic conduct on the part of the accused and their friends in the public gallery. Having repeatedly interrupted proceedings, magistrates ordered one of the accused, rejoicing in the appellation 'Franklin Rapier', to be taken down to the cells. This was the signal for a swift reversion to conduct appropriate to their tropical rain forest homeland on the part of the contents of the dock. Leaping from its confines, the accused Negroes pitched into police and court officials, swiftly joined by their racial comrades dropping from the public gallery. After several minutes of pandemonium the Court was cleared. However, proceedings were soon interrupted again by further cultural self-expressions on the part of the assembled 'Third Worlders' in the public gallery, which rapidly spread into the streets, where a gang of over a hundred assorted offspring of Jah rampaged, narrowly being prevented from staging a repeat performance of last April's antics in Bristol City Centre.

One wonders what the next trans-Atlantic import will be. Black Panthers? Zebra killings? Gay cops? City sackings a la Miami?

DAVID RILEY

MARXISM AND THE I.R.A.

TO LOOK upon the IRA and other Republican movements in Northern Ireland, such as the Irish National Liberation Army, as participants in a strictly sectarian conflict, of "oppressed" Catholics struggling against a dominant Protestant majority, or even as a struggle for national independence, would be to fall for one of the most successful propaganda traps of the last few decades. If the IRA or any of the other terrorist organisations engaged in murdering members of our Security Forces and innocent men, women and children were sectarian organisations (that is: genuinely Catholic and fighting for the Catholic faith) or in any real sense of the word at all Nationalists, they would never have gained the widespread support which they now enjoy amongst the Left in Britain today.

The Troops Out Movement has always enjoyed immense support from within the Labour Party. The International Marxist Group and the Socialist Workers' Party have gone even further in advocating their solidarity with the "liberation fighters" of the IRA. Recently the extent to which support for the aims of the IRA has risen within not only the revolutionary Left but also the left wing of the trade union movement was revealed by a conference planned in the north west. On March 1st last year the National Front in the north west held a protest march through Ashton-under-Lyne, Greater Manchester, where the local Labour-controlled council had originally given the go-ahead for a meeting organised by Tameside Trades Council. Called "Ireland & the British Labour Movement" this conference was to have included speakers from the Belfast Relatives Action Committee, Belfast Women Against Imperialism, the Irish Republican Socialist Party (whose terrorist wing, the Irish National Liberation Army, claimed responsibility for the murder of Airey Neave), Smash the Prevention of Terrorism Act Campaign, a representative from the British Leyland Cowley Plant (Alan Thornett) and Tameside Trades Council itself.

A leaflet printed and published by Tameside Trades Council for this conference gives one of the clearest admissions so far of the commitment by the revolutionary Left in Britain to the cause of the IRA, not merely to bring about "independence", but as a means of bringing the IRA's style of conflict to Britain itself as an instrument of armed revolution.

TREASON

At the head of this openly treasonable leaflet is the slogan: "SUPPORT THE IRISH PEOPLE: BRING THE WAR TO BRITAIN!" The leaflet then starts by stating that there has never been a better time for the building up of support for the "Irish liberation struggle." In words which few other countries in the world would have tolerated being published the leaflet goes on to state: "For the last 10 years the British ruling class has concentrated its fire power on the nationalist population of the Six Counties. Now it is more and more turning its attentions to dealing with the British labour movement. In Ireland Britain's military forces have thrown everything into the war effort. Over the last decade the daily routine of Catholics has come to include continual intimidation. Those actively involved in the struggle live with the threat of arrest, detention without trial, the torture of the Long Kesh concentration camp and death at the hands of the British security forces. Despite all this the most sophisticated army in Europe is no nearer defeating the Irish people today than it was when it invaded the Six Counties in 1969. The division of the British state's attentions between the Irish people and the British working class gives us greater opportunity to unite with those in Ireland in fighting our common enemy. The way forward for the Irish people necessitates the defeat of the state."

IRA murderers on parade in Belfast

It requires no great intellect to pick out the lies and fallacies contained in the above statement. Ignoring the fact that the overwhelming majority of the people in Ulster on more than one occasion have shown their wholehearted determination to remain part of the UK, they try to assert that the IRA's terrorist campaign has been against "the British ruling class". Our Armed Forces, subjected as they are to continual sniping and booby-traps and to constant criticism from Left-Wing Establishment politicians, are ludicrously portrayed as the "most sophisticated army in Europe". The most betrayed army in Europe they may be, but there is nothing particularly "sophisticated" about using rubber bullets. And, ignoring the Gulags that have sprouted across more than half of Europe since Russian expansion at the end of the Second World War, Long Kesh (where even effective interrogation has been banned) is condemned as a "concentration camp"!

OBNOXIOUS PROPAGANDA

If it was not so serious and potentially dangerous this kind of nonsense would be laughable. But even though squalid little Left Wing groups like Tameside Trades Council and their treacherous allies have little chance of raising more than miniscule support by their obnoxious propaganda, nevertheless the menace which such propaganda represents and the aims which those producing it have, can only be ignored at the risk of hundreds, perhaps thousands more lives being lost in the future from a renewed terrorist campaign in Britain by the IRA – a campaign which would be far more dangerous and widespread were it to be supported by a nationwide Fifth Column of collaborators from the Left. Nor could anyone safely forecast that over the next few years social and economic conditions under the present Conservative Government will not deteriorate so much that a different climate of opinion will prevail in which substantial numbers of unemployed and impoverished people may well be tempted by the Siren calls of these Marxist revolutionaries, who are quite plainly already building up closer links now with the armed revolutionaries of the IRA.

REAL SIGNIFICANCE

I stress the word "armed", because this is where the real significance of the Left's support of the IRA lies. Up until now the various Marxist groups in this country have mainly restricted themselves to combatting those opposed to them, whether the police or parties like the National Front, through traditional means: large scale demonstrations, pickets etc. However, over recent years a greater willingness to use various sorts of primitive weapons such as knives, bludgeons, ammonia sprays, bricks, bottles and smoke-bombs has grown. Derelict houses have been occupied by gangs of Reds in order to hurl fire-bombs down at police during demonstrations, as at Southall. Ordinary people have been terrorised and others have been set upon and beaten. All of this, however, to anyone with any inkling at all of the real aims and methods of the Left is quite obviously merely the prelude to something far more sinister. When Lenin and his motley band of Bolsheviks seized power in Russia in 1917 it was not because they were numerically larger than any of their opponents, nor even than their rivals on the Left. In fact they were one of the smaller Left Wing groups then active in Russia. Their strength did not lie in their numbers, which were scarcely more than several thousand, nor did it solely lie in the financial support given them by various Jewish bankers on Wall Street, but in their complete and utter ruthlessness and, in particular, their willingness, indeed their eagerness, to use armed terror against their opponents: bombs, rifles and machine-guns.

Marxist collaboration with the IRA was again revealed recently at a meeting in Conway Hall, London, organised by the Troops Out Movement. Together with the ubiquitous Pat Arrowsmith (a member of the Anti-Nazi League), there were representatives from Robert Mugabe's Zimbabwe African National Council (Black African Marxist terrorists), the Irish Republican Socialist Party/Irish National Liberation Army, and the International Marxist Group. The IMG's speaker at this meeting was Tariq Ali who, it should be remembered, during the IRA's bombing campaign in 1974 admitted on the BBC that his organisation would "give favourable consideration" to requests by the IRA for shelter while carrying out their bombing raids. At the same time the IMG's newspaper, Red Weekly, in October 1974 published an article headed "Solidarity with the IRA". This article contended that the struggle in Ulster "inevitably means the use of arms" and that they would have to see that the war was extended to Britain.

WEAPONS FROM THE SOVIET UNION

Although the IRA regularly receives financial support from gullible sections of the Irish community in the United States this is not their sole source of money, nor is it their principal source of arms. Along with weapons supplied by the Soviet Union the IRA is in contact with terrorist groups throughout the world and has taken part in training courses for guerrillas in Marxist Libya.

The IRA is the sole section of the revolutionary Left in the British Isles which at the moment is in open armed conflict with our Security Forces. As such they have over the years gained the experience and training which other sections of the Marxist Left will require if they are to fulfil their ultimate objectives. It is therefore essential that wherever and whenever these vicious traitors try to collaborate and build up any kind of working alliance they should be exposed and stopped as vigorously as possible. The Trades Council in Tameside paid for their attempted treason by being expelled from the TUC. This only happened because they were exposed by the National Front.

TOTAL WAR

This is a relentless fight in which we in the National Front must be seen to be in the vanguard. Today we have armed rebellion in Ulster, tomorrow it could all too easily spill over into mainland Britain itself. If the National Front does not stand up and oppose these people, it is certain that there is no other political force in this country today which has either the numbers or the guts to do anything about it.

Although Tameside's supposedly tough "right-wing" Conservative Party had ample opportunity to do something, it failed miserably to do anything at all. This pathetic weakness on the part of the Establishment in Britain is why the IRA has continued to exist, and why the threat now faces us of its tactics being adopted by the revolutionary left in Britain. In fighting the Marxists and their allies, the IRA, we are fighting a total war and victory can only come by recognising this fact.

A LOOK AT THE LATEST READING

THE TURNER DIARIES – Andrew Macdonald

THE Turner Diaries by Andrew Macdonald is a new, shockingly honest portrayal of a White Revolution in America. It is set in the early 1990s when the disastrous effects of enforced multi-racialism have been accentuated to such a degree that lawlessness and anarchy are the social norms. Muggings, rapes and murders are commonplace as gangs of marauding Negroes wander the streets taking it out on the 'Honkies'. This racial anarchy is combined with the decay of the American capitalist society, where living standards are falling and power cuts are widespread.

This then is the world in which Earl Turner finds himself on September 16, 1991, the date of the first entry in his diary . . .

"Today it finally began! After all these years of talking – and nothing but talking – we have finally taken our first action. We are at war with the System, and it is no longer a war of words."

Indeed, the war in which Earl Turner and the Organisation are fighting is anything but a war of words. Their war is a bloody and gruesome one, a fight to the death. Either the Organisation must destroy the System, or else the System will annihilate the Organisation.

The Turner Diaries is an action-packed book which keeps the reader informed of the day-to-day struggles of the Great Revolution. It is, however, not a book for the squeamish, dealing as it does, in a soberingly honest fashion, with the harsh realities of life during the Revolution.

The Turner Diaries is published in America by the National Alliance, but is available in this country from Dulwich Books, c/o Box 71, Nationalism Today, Huntingfield, Halesworth, Suffolk. (Cheques payable to Nationalism Today.) Price £2.00 incl. postage and packing.

TERRY NEWMAN

ARGUMENTS FOR SOCIALISM – Anthony Wedgwood Benn

THE main point to emerge from this latest of Wedgewood Benn's publications is that it fails to advance any clear coherent policy. True, he talks about nationalisation and union participation in Government, but these do little more than serve as slogans to trap the gullible who accept things purely on face value. It is all part of the same glib theorising that we have come to recognise as the trademark of International Socialism/Marxism.

On the question of the traditional campaigning issue of unemployment, Benn kicks around a few ideas and discusses the various workers' co-operatives that have existed, but he fails to grasp the root of the problem. For instance, the role played by International Finance in playing off one country's workforce against another's in their thirst for profits is not fully exposed. Also avoided is the effect that cheap imports have on jobs, and Benn at one point even indicates a desire not to harm exports from underdeveloped nations. This is despite the fact that the main beneficiaries of these exports are the multi-national companies who exploit the Third World's 'sweated' labour. It is in instances such as this that the people who masquerade as the heroes of the British Working Class show themselves to be its greatest enemies. It must occur even to 'Wedgie' that if we believe in the maintenance of a well paid, fully employed population, then we must protect our home market from imports from cheap labour areas.

The Official Secrets Act and the lack of information available to the public are other issues that Benn is concerned with. But the activities of the ultra-secret Bilderberg Group and other super-capitalist secret societies do not attract his attention. Nor, even less surprisingly, does the role played by capitalist organisations in funding left-wing groups in Britain. For instance, the funding of the Labour Co-ordinating Committee, a pro-Benn pressure group, by the Rowntree Trust does not warrant a mention!

Whether Wedgewood Benn is himself part of any conspiracy, or whether he is just a dupe behind whose engineered respectability hide people with more sinister intentions, is a matter for conjecture. But one thing is a certainty – as a threat to the Establishment Benn is a paper tiger. Which reminds me of a slogan I saw written on a wall in Liverpool: "If you could vote to change anything it would be banned." Roll on the Revolution!

2) UNEMPLOYMENT

Q. With unemployment climbing towards 2½ million there is clearly a lot of potential support for the NF among ordinary working people. But surely we can't blame the Blacks for unemployment? After all, millions were out of work in the 1930's when there were hardly any immigrants here.

A. The NF does not "blame the Blacks" for all unemployment. It is obvious that cheap immigrant labour has hit our pay packets and made unemployment worse, but there are a number of other important factors.

Thousands of jobs have been lost because the Tories have removed restrictions on the export of capital. This has allowed Big Business, especially the multi-national companies, to close down factories in Britain and move their money and machinery to countries like Hong Kong, Korea and behind the Iron Curtain. As wages there are far lower than here, the goods are produced cheaply and then sent to Britain, making big profits and undercutting our own factories. This fills the pockets of a handful of Capitalists, but for smaller British firms and the ordinary worker it means bankruptcy and the dole queue. A National Front government will therefore pass laws to stop this export of capital and to ensure that the country's factories are owned by Britons, not by foreigners. Import controls will also be introduced to protect our home industries so that all goods which could be made in Britain are made here, thereby creating work for hundreds of thousands.

Q. But wouldn't that just provoke retaliation and leave us completely isolated?

A. No. The import bans will be selective, against countries like Japan and Communist states such as Rumania to whom we export little, but whose cheap imports have already ruined our motorbike, electronics and textile industries and are now destroying whole sections of our manufacturing base.

Q. So repatriation of coloured immigrants, exchange controls and import bans would create jobs for millions of our own people. But why does the National Front attack the Banks and the present financial system? What effect does this have on the economy?

A. Unemployment is also the inevitable result of mechanisation and increased industrial efficiency. Modern technology makes it possible to increase production while decreasing the workforce. All over the developed world industry is complaing about "overproduction" and cutting back output accordingly. But how can they say that Britain is "overproducing" when Scotland has the worst slums in Western Europe, when thousands of our old folk die each winter of diseases brought on by hunger and cold, when our cities are full of derelict building sites and when millions of our own people live in abject poverty? These scandals show that the market for goods and services does exist in Britain, what does not exist is the money to allow the people to buy them.

Yet "money" by itself is only worthless paper and entries on bank ledgers. A nation's real wealth lies in its productive capacity – in its factories and farms, its roads and resources, and in the skill of its people in finding new ways to harness them. As explained in last issue's 'Spotlight on Inflation', the fact that all the money needed by the economy has to be borrowed from the Banks is the basis of most of the economic evils of the Western world. Not only does it give the parasitic Banks unimaginable power and wealth, but it also means that since all the money borrowed has to be repaid with interest, there is a constant loss of purchasing power, so that the population of the country can never afford to purchase all they can produce.

Q. Surely Mrs. Thatcher's "cuts" are making things even worse?

A. Yes. We've still got inflation, mainly because of the burden of debt, but productive industry is suffering from stagnation and deflation, just as it did in the 1930's. What it needs is more money, not less. There is an easy way to explain this: imagine that a mother buys a packet of baby-food and follows the instructions on the packet which say that a baby of a certain weight should be given a set amount of food. Unfortunately a lot of the food sticks to the bowl and the baby doesn't get enough, so it loses weight. The mother weighs it again and follows the instructions which say that a smaller and lighter baby should have less food. In turn, the baby gets even thinner and is fed even less. Unless the mother changes her policy, it will starve to death.

The mother is Mrs. Thatcher, the food left in the bowl is the money sucked out of the economy by the parasitic Banks and the baby which is being starved to death is British industry.

Q. What's the answer?

A. The credit needed to run the economy must be created interest free by the government, not borrowed from the Banks. Factories built with borrowed money have to put up their prices to pay off usurious interest rates. This automatically builds inflation into the production system and must be stopped. The people must be given the purchasing power to buy the goods which they produce.

Q. So repatriation, import controls and financial reform would end unemployment for a time. But the experts say that the micro-chip and advanced mechanisation will eventually make the industrial worker obsolete. You've only got to look at the adverts for cars made by robots to see that it is possible. Surely unemployment will then increase again?

A. Yes. The NF policies already discussed will merely give Britain a breathing space of perhaps twenty years and are the answers to existing problems, which the electorate will be able to understand easily. In the long run, however, well-made goods without built-in obsolescence will largely saturate the market and technology will allow the new goods which are needed to be made by a smaller workforce. To deal with this long term threat of renewed unemployment, far more radical and deep-rooted changes are needed.

We must accept that full industrially-based employment is not possible and, what is more, not desirable. Why should members of the most intelligent and creative race on earth have to slave in the mind-numbing boredom of the factory when machines could do the work for them? That surely is the ideal solution, providing that the products made by the machines can be distributed to the people who would have made them. The benefits must not go just to a handful of super-Capitalists while everyone else lives in jobless poverty.

Q. But if the people are no longer working in the factories, what right have they to enjoy the wealth which the machines produce?

A. Well, if the British people do not have the right to that wealth, who does? Most of the profit from such industry will come not from the labour of the workers, nor from money invested by the owners, but from machines and technology developed by our race over centuries and which are therefore part of our common inheritance. There is no reason why only one section of the nation should reap the benefits of such accumulated skills and inventions; the plutocratic boss of an industrial monopoly has no more "right" to them than an unemployed school leaver.

Q. But if factories are run by machines, what jobs will there be left for people to do?

A. Just look at the thousands of acres of waste land in our cities. It will take millions of man hours to reclaim it for building new homes or for allotments and city farms. Then there are polluted rivers to be cleaned up and millions of trees to be planted to replace those lost through disease and ruthless farming techniques. This environmental work, along with social projects such as day centres and better homes for pensioners and young families, will provide employment for hundreds of thousands. It would be rewarded by a generous "social wage" and recognised as a valuable contribution to the nation, carrying none of the stigma and degradation now attached to the dole queue.

As the squalor and waste of two hundred years of rapacious "get rich quick" Capitalism is cleared up, interest free loans and technical advice centres will encourage thousands of enterprising individuals to set up their own small shops and businesses. The government will help these people by breaking up industrial and service monopolies. Wherever possible enormous factories and supermarkets will be replaced by independent craftsmen and small shopkeepers.

We will also encourage emigration from the large industrial cities. It is to be hoped that we can rebuild our links with the White Commonwealth, so that those thinly populated lands can be developed to their full potential by a new influx of adventurous Britons. Many more will move to the countryside in Britain itself. For hundreds of years there has been a drift from the land to the cities. Rural depopulation has emptied thousands of once thriving villages. This is lamentable and will be reversed by breaking up large mechanised estates into labour intensive small-holdings and family farms.

The huge farms of lowland Britain are only able to maintain their much vaunted "efficiency" by the use of millions of tons of poisonous chemicals, artificial fertilisers and oil. All these things are derived from mineral reserves which are fast being exhausted. They also have to be imported, which is economically bad and strategically dangerous. They are, in addition, bad for the soil, for wildlife, and for the people who eat the crops.

One of the first priorities of a National Front government must be a programme to replace highly mechanised Capitalist agriculture with small, privately owned and labour intensive farms. By using natural organic manures, such small-holdings have been proven to be more productive per acre than "modern" large farms, while giving a healthy and satisfying living to hundreds of thousands of British free-holders.

Slums in Glasgow – Thousands could be employed rebuilding run-down areas in our cities

Q. So unemployment can only be abolished by a combination of short- and long-term measures?

A. Yes. Import controls to secure "British Jobs for British Workers" and "blaming the Blacks" are vital in the short-term. But ultimately the tragic waste of the dole queue can only be ended by a revolution in financial policy and the wage system. The government must intervene to give to the people the money to consume the goods produced by advanced technology. We must establish a nation of free and independent land owners, enjoying the benefits of industrial society without its evils of waste and exploitation.

INVASION OF THE COUNTRYSIDE

Sir,

With most of our cities overflowing with all kinds of racial aliens, many as yet unspoilt rural areas are having to take on a growing share of the burden.

Kent is a typical example of a county being invaded by the overspill of a major city – in this case London. The historic town of Gravesend has become the 'Little India' of the county. Asian faces are everywhere, taking the jobs and the homes that belong to the Whites. Maidstone, Tunbridge Wells and the Medway towns have growing immigrant populations. With the help of the race perverts, the character of such places is being destroyed and replaced by alien cultures.

Villages too, are encouraged to welcome whatever drifts in. The 'Boat People' – when they're not on TV – have landed in several villages. This fact was greeted with masochistic glee by local newspapers, who always champion immigrants in everything.

What is most alarming however, is the attitude of many older Whites. Too many are taken in by Establishment propaganda, and fall over backwards to help anyone with a dark skin. They don't realise that they're digging their own graves and wrecking their children's futures.

Younger Whites are not so easily fooled. They see more clearly what is happening around them. Many are unemployed or soon will be and would be willing to follow a party that will give them hope for the future. It is vital that NF activists get the message across before it is too late, and with 300 White youths marching with us in Tunbridge Wells last August, it is clear that the battle for White Power in Kent has begun!

Paul Comben, Kent

EXTRA MUSCLE-POWER

Dear Sir,

I am much impressed by the well-researched and hard-hitting features in Nationalism Today.

It's good to see that the NF's anti-monopoly capitalist stance is becoming more pronounced.

Such a journal has been long overdue. It gives extra muscle-power to the National Front's Cause.

Good wishes,

Graham Jones, Wolverhampton

NUCLEAR WAR

Dear Sirs,

I enjoyed reading your last issue, especially the article Keep Britain Out of Capitalist Wars.

It was particularly relevant now that war strategists are talking in terms of a "limited nuclear war" between the USA and USSR – a conflict which would bring missiles raining down only on Britain and Europe.

Britain, with 103 American military bases, would obviously be a major target of an attack that would virtually obliterate the country.

Undoubtedly, one of the first acts of a future Nationalist government, in order to ensure British independence, would be the expulsion of all American military personnel from our country, and the withdrawal of Britain from the international agency NATO.

Yours for National and Social Liberation,

K. Bradley, Norwich

ZIONIST MEDIA

Dear Colleagues,

Thanks for the latest issue of Nationalism Today.

After the diet of subversive filth which is poured out daily by the race traitors and their masters of the Zionist media, your magazine is like a breath of sweet country air after the stench of the sewer.

May you have success,

W. G. Young, London SW

RURAL ROOTS

Dear Sir,

I was very impressed with the article in issue two by Nick Wakeling regarding the sinking of roots in rural communities.

I myself live in a market town which has strong links with the large local farming community.

I think that the potential for the NF in rural areas is very great, and I believe a planned programme to 'sell' the NF to the rural community should be considered. Leaflets specifically for farmers and farm labourers should be produced, underlining how the Tories are wrecking British agriculture.

Yours sincerely,

P. B. Stafford, Wigton, Cumbria

ONE FROM DOWN UNDER

Dear Sirs,

I have just received an issue of Nationalism Today. In a word – Excellent!

The essentially bourgeois-conservative orientation of previous Nationalist publications was clearly alienating large sections of the British people.

The fresh and dynamic approach you advocate for the British Nationalist movement is a vital necessity that must be realised by patriots around the world.

Wishing you success,

Racial Nationalist Regards,

David Merritt, Sydney, Australia

ROTTEN

Dear Fellow Britons,

Congratulations on your magazine. I find it intelligent, informative, sensible and, most important, grass roots material.

You are quite right about capitalism. Finance is the last decadent phase of what was once a necessary stage of our development – but now it is Rotten with a capital 'R'.

Best wishes,

R. Whittaker, Manchester 16

Challenge the conspiracy of silence –build Nationalism Today

IS THERE a conspiracy by international financial interests to frustrate the growth of Nationalism and destroy independent nationhood? One journalist who dared to suggest it in the columns of an Establishment newspaper was C. Gordon Tether, who wrote the 'Lombard' column in the Financial Times for over twenty years until his contributions were suppressed by the paper's editor.

Mr. Tether's suppressed articles, published as The Banned Articles of C. Gordon Tether are now available from Nationalist Books, PO Box 163, London EC2A 3AU; priced 60p (plus 13½p postage).

Mr. Tether's position was something of an enigma – writing for a paper like the Financial Times, while being critical of the Bankers of the City of London and International Financiers in general; a vocal opponent of the submergence of British freedom in the Common Market; an advocate of the national interest, a champion of real democracy against the vested powers of the plutocracy; a supporter of workers' participation, and an advocate of capital punishment.

The enigma was resolved by Mr. Tether's dismissal from his job.

This sort of action, and the conspiracy of silence by the hacks of the liberal, internationalist Establishment press, underlines the importance of building up our own alternative press to carry forward and promote the Nationalist message.

You can help by taking out a subscription to Nationalism Today. You can also help us by sending interesting press cuttings, articles, cartoons etc.

N.T.* is a chink of light in the media blackout's wall of darkness. With your help we can turn that chink of light into a glaring searchlight of truth. Help challenge the Conspiracy of Silence – build Nationalism Today.

LAUGHING THEIR HEADS OFF!

HUNDREDS of Asians have come to Britain to get free treatment for leprosy on the National Health Service. Dr. Anthony Hall, consultant at the Hospital for Tropical Diseases, St. Pancras, says he has treated a number of immigrants who knew they had the disease when they entered our country.

Many are students or hotel workers ("Waiter, there's a finger in my soup") who keep quiet about the disease for their first few months here and then get free treatment at the taxpayers' expense.

Dr. Hall estimates that there are 400 people with active leprosy in Britain and says "My objection is partly on the grounds of cost, since it can cost as much as £100,000 to treat and support someone suffering from leprosy, and partly on the grounds that this is a communicable disease which can be passed on to British residents."

The problem is expected to get worse now that Greece has entered the Common Market, as Greek peasants will then be able to come here without restriction. Leprosy is still rife in Greece, as was shown by a recent case in the Supreme Court in Athens, where it was ruled that leprosy is a valid reason for divorce. Presumably what they call a crumbling marriage!

IT'S THE 'TRUTH'!

THE following report was taken from Pravda the official newspaper in Soviet Russia. By the way, in case you wondered, Pravda means truth. We quote:

"A Pravda survey reveals that an organisation called "The Boy Scouts" is turning American youngsters into hostile, war-mongering imperialists. Every boy who is forced to join the Boy Scouts is trained to be a master of all forms of espionage, violence, and germ warfare. He quickly becomes a tool of the ruthless US government.

"At the age of 8 or 9, innocent American boys are forcibly herded into an organisation called "Cub Scouts", which prepares them for future foul deeds.

"The Cub Scout dictators force the youth to worship the wolf, one of the most vicious and uncivilised of predatory animals.

"After three years of servitude in the Cub Scouts, the boys, now howling adolescents, are forced to join older, more corrupt Boy Scouts.

"The Scouts' most deceitful ritual is the shameful Court of Honour, where young war-mongers are decorated with so-called "Merit Badges". It is here that they receive awards in such insidious fields as swimming (underwater demolition and sabotage), path-finding (counter-espionage), and pioneering (exploitation of underdeveloped nations)."

NO SEX PLEASE, WE'RE CHINESE!

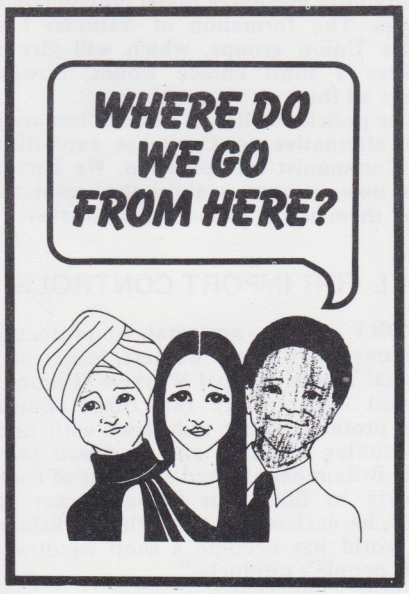
COMMUNIST China, where sex outside marriage and before the age of 25 is a criminal offence, has recently issued two million copies of a sex education booklet for Chinese youth. Since the real thing is banned for its under-25 readership, the booklet waxes lyrical about "the dangers of self-abuse", which it says "causes nervous weakness" and can be cured by developing "correct Communist attitudes" to the "menace of masturbation" and by "wearing baggy underpants". Good Marxists wishing to break the habit should also "avoid all sexually-exciting substances such as tobacco and alcohol" and "shun pornographic books and films" (though this should present few problems as anything more titillating than a peck on the cheek is censored as "bourgeois degeneracy" anyway). The issue of boxing gloves with lockable wrist straps to key cadres for night wear has not yet occurred to Teng & Co.!

Once over 25 and lawfully wedded, readers are advised to limit sex to "once or twice a week", dropping to "once every one or two weeks" as advancing years cool the urge. Budding ravers are cautioned: "If, on the morning after having sex, a couple feels worn-out, heavy-handed, pain in the thighs or short of breath, or if they detect a loss of appetite, they are having too much sex and should take corrective measures."

Meanwhile, in Albania, another "Marxist-Leninist" state, it is illegal to have long hair, listen to pop music, read pornography, travel abroad, own your own car or be left-handed.

What was that about "No Fun", comrades?

QUICK QUIZ



RANTINGS OF A REACTIONARY

'Dunstruttin',
Frinton-on-Sea.

Sir,

Your magazine is a disgrace. I thought the NF was an improved version of Mrs. Thatcher before I read 'N.T.' Next thing you'll be demanding is the abolition of unearned income – just like those awful Germans. You're all just Trotskyites. Look at your attacks on the Banks and International Capitalists, don't you see you are alienating the very people most likely to give support to British Nationalism?

It's all very well talking about National Unity, but you must realise that there is a social and economic divide which separates working men from the Gentry and the Bourgeoisie. Remember that it was the City stockbrokers, not the Bolshy dockers. who marched for Enoch Powell in 1968!

Your rag is a threat to free speech, to the circulation of my own journal 'Pinhead', and to our magnificent police force. For this reason I am forming a GOAT (General Orderly Activities Team) which will defend ME against your Red Guards. My GOAT will use an Iron Hand to crush all opposition to my father-in-law's interpretation of National Conservatism and to drive your skinheads, punks, unruly types and normal people generally back to the S.W.P. where they belong. I enclose a photo of myself for possible publication.

Yours for Race and the wealthy part of the Nation,
John Tinpot.

ED. This letter was published because we felt it gave the lie to the recent suggestion that "Senile Toryism Has No Place in British Nationalism."

Industrial Front

DISASTER LOOMS FOR TEXTILE INDUSTRY

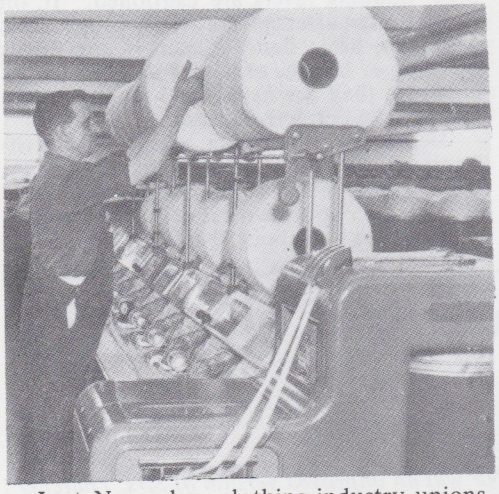
FOREIGN IMPORTS are threatening the very existence of Britain's textile industry. Already this year, thousands of textile workers have been made redundant and factories in the north of England are closing down at the rate of one a week.

Without doubt, this crisis has been brought on by cheap foreign imports from countries in Eastern Europe and Asia.

The main threat to the clothing industry comes from countries like Taiwan and Korea, where goods are produced with cheap labour at less than the price of raw materials in Europe.

Last year, the number of trousers imported from Thailand increased by a staggering 3,116 per cent (not a printing error) and Hong Kong unleashed almost 25 million shirts on the British market.

Understandably, this flooding of the British home market by cheaply produced foreign imports is threatening to bankrupt Britain's own textiles industry. So serious is the threat that management and unions are trying to pressurise the Government into taking action to stem the import tide before it is too late.



Last November, clothing industry unions and management drew the Government's attention to three-piece men's suits imported from Rumania, which were entering Common Market countries at £7.50 each. Not surprisingly, neither the Government nor the EEC have done anything to stop the influx of cheap communist imports.

Also, Trade Union research has shown that red communes in China are producing clothes and then sewing on "Made in Hong Kong" labels. These are then dumped onto the countries of the West, where they are sold alongside British goods.

Mr. Neil Kearney of the National Union of Tailors and Garment Workers blamed the "lack of Government control on the dumping of foreign goods" for the state of the textiles industry.

Mr. Kearney's union has been particularly hard hit by the collapse of the textiles industry. Fifteen thousand of the union's members have been made redundant over the last year and a similar number are on short-time working.

Mr. Kearney explained the effect that the encroachment of cheap imported goods was having on the industry: "The clothing and textiles industries are in their most depressed state ever. One tenth of the clothing industry's shopfloor workforce has disappeared within just a few months."

Along with the dumping of foreign goods, Mr. Kearney also blamed "vague Common Market rules" and the "unnecessary application of VAT to clothing" for contributing towards the collapse of the textiles industry.

He went on to criticise the Common Market for making no effort to curb the number of imports that are flooding into Britain and other Western European countries from Eastern Europe and Asia.

"The trouble is that we British play cricket, while everyone else is on the rugby field, and this is typical of our relations with the EEC.

"We need urgent action from the Government now to prevent the clothing and textiles industry being wiped off the map."

However, if British workers are beginning to demand the introduction of import controls, the leaders of Big Business in Britain still remain firmly opposed to the idea.

For instance, Sir John Hedley Greenborough, deputy president of the Confederation of British Industry, has stated that import curbs were not the answer to Britain's problems. According to him the solution lies in lower pay deals and an increase in world trade!

But textiles worker Ray Bateman summed up the attitude of most British workers when he said:

"Every time we buy goods from abroad we are buying our fellow workers' unemployment."

N.F. TEXTILES WORKERS' ASSOCIATION

AT THE Party's AGM in October, it was agreed to form a National Front Textile Workers' Association. The Association would aim to promote and publicise the National Front's policies of protecting the textile industry, and to mobilise and unite textile workers behind the NF as the only Party with the policies which can save the British textile industry from total destruction.

As a worker and a shop steward in a South London textile printing works, I am interested in forming a London group of the NFTWA. If any NF member or supporter in the London or Home Counties area would like to help with the formation of such a group, please write to me at 286 Haydons Road, London SW19.

Mark Spong, TGWU Shop Steward

"BAN TEA-BREAKS"

Chaim Schreiber: Hotpoint Boss

MR. CHAIM Shreiber, managing director of Hotpoint, the electrical firm, horrified the workforce with his efforts to increase profits. They were already on a three-day week owing to competition from imports, but Mr. Shreiber came up with further ideas to "boost efficiency".

First smoking was banned and credit at the factory shop was stopped. Holiday, sick and death benefits have been reduced and a subsidy on canteen lunches scrapped. The final blow to the workers at Peterborough and Llandudno came when good old Chaim stopped afternoon tea breaks.

Such petty restrictions in fact decrease efficiency by increasing boredom and they certainly damage industrial relations.

Mr. Shreiber also ended the £3 payment for shop stewards attending union meetings. The only effect of this will be to discourage ordinary workers from taking up union positions, making it easier for Marxists to gain control and use legitimate grievances for their own ends. This is how Reaction makes Communism inevitable under present circumstances. The formation of National Front Trades Union groups, which will give the workers a third choice would, however, change all that.

Our policies of Racial Nationalism are the only alternative to Capitalist exploitation and Communist manipulation. We have the ideas, now we must establish the organisation to get them across to the British worker.

CALL FOR IMPORT CONTROLS

IMPORT contols are vital to protect our economy, says David Basnett, leader of the General and Municipal Workers' Union. He pointed out recently that other countries have protected their industries with under-the-counter subsidies and disguised tariffs, while Britain has allowed a torrent of foreign imports to flood our home market. The result, he declared, is that "the workshop of the world has become a shop window for other people's products."

NATIONAL FRONT UNDER SIEGE

WHILE the National Front was beset by internal problems, our political and racial enemies reduced the external pressure on our Movement. Aware that hostility from outside helps to unify any group, our opponents left it to their agents and disruptive elements within the party to destroy it. These tactics have, however, clearly failed, so the enemy is turning again from subversion to frontal assault.

Late last year the Zionist owned mass media renewed its hate campaign against the NF. It was reported that a number of bombings and shootings, in fact the work of Communists and Israeli agents, were the work of a "European Nazi Conspiracy". The hysteria thus created was whipped up still further by groundless horror stories about shadowy and cranky "neo-fascist groups" in Britain, and this artificially created theat was then used as a pretext for fresh attacks on the NF.

It was announced that the "Anti-Nazi League" was being reformed and its campaign to be given a boost by a broadly based Left-wing rally addressed by Anthony Wedgewood-Benn (formerly Viscount Stansgate). But the ANAL had failed to "smash" the National Front once before, so the Board of Deputies of British Jews who set it up the first time round, have worked out other methods of attack.

VICIOUS

It is clear that since the remote control bootboys of the SWP were not up to the job of physically smashing the NF, the Zionists have decided to do it for themselves. There are indications that they are trying to reactivate the infamous " '62 Group", the gang of Jewish razor-boys and petty criminals who were responsible for a number of vicious attacks on British Nationalists some years ago.

More alarming still are the recent reports tucked inside Establishment newspapers that a "commando squad" of Israeli servicemen is to be based in Britain to deal with anti-Zionists. These facts, together with the more aggressive attitude displayed by the Zionist press, indicate that the National Front faces a campaign of physical terror which must be met head on by whatever means are necessary.

One thing that is certain is that we can expect no help from the Establishment. Not only do most Labour MP's want to see the NF banned, but the intention of the Tories to "reform" the 1936 Public Order Act in order to clamp down on us shows that the Conservatives do as well, albeit in a more subtle way.

POLICE HOSTILITY

Similarly, we need not expect the police, who are, after all, merely the paid agents of the Establishment, to defend our rights and freedoms. No one who has seen the police in action at recent demonstrations can have any illusions on that score. In Birmingham and London last November, while protecting IRA marchers, the police attacked and beat up Young National Front members. The attitude of the police, even to perfectly peaceful NF activities such as paper selling or well-behaved pickets, is generally extremely hostile. The quieter and more reasonable you are, the more they push you around. The only way to assert your rights is by a sufficient show of strength or bloody-mindedness to convince the officer in charge that stopping the activity will be more trouble than allowing it to continue. As the political pressure on the police increases this situation is bound to worsen and the formidable powers of Special Branch, the Secret Political Police, will be used even more.

FINAL VICTORY

Now that attempts to destroy us from within have failed, the whole range of external pressures are being applied. The renewed propaganda war, increased indoctrination in schools, draconian new laws, police harrassment and infiltration, and sheer terrorism are all part of the Enemy assault. The Establishment is terrified of the potential for a well-organised and radical party like the NF at a time of economic and social crisis. That is why an all-out attempt is being made to smash us before Britain's economy slides into total collapse. That is why, from now until our final victory, the National Front will be under siege.

But however much the tools of Zionism throw at us, the NF will continue to grow. Pressure such as this only makes us stronger for the struggles ahead. Only the weak will be scared off by such tactics, turning the National Front into a hard and determined fighting force. A fighting force strong enough to take on and destroy all opposition to the National Revolution!

OBITUARY

SINCE the publication of our last issue we have heard of the death of Archie Jackson, who was a life-long patriot and a tireless fighter for the Nationalist cause. Archie was a subscriber to various Racial Nationalist publications, and he was known to the Editorial Staff of Nationalism Today as a loyal supporter. He will be missed, but he can rest assured that the Cause to which he devoted his life will be carried on by the new generation of British Nationalists.

A CALL FOR ECONOMIC NATIONALISM

AT THE National Front's Annual General Meeting in October, Party Chairman Andrew Brons proposed a motion calling for the implementation of Nationalist economic policies. The motion was seconded by Philip Gegan, head of the NF's Legal Department, and it was passed unanimously by those in attendance. Below we reprint the full text of this motion:

Car imports flood in. A protected home market is needed

Resolution 13: A CALL TO IMPLEMENT ECONOMIC NATIONALISM

This AGM indicts the Thatcher Government (and all previous Conservative and Labour administrations) for producing the highest level of unemployment since the 1930's, for maintaining consistently high levels of inflation, and for destroying the industrial base of Britain. We reject the various economic and political orthodoxies upon which the policies of the Conservative Government and those of both wings of the Labour Opposition are based. In particular:

(1) We reject the claim by the Tories that their Monetarist policies can curb the inflation rate by trying to reduce the rate of increase in the money supply without changing the form in which money is injected into the economy – i.e. as an interest-bearing debt. We reject the myth fostered by the banking fraternity that inflation can be fought by allowing bank lending rates to rise to unprecedented levels, thereby giving an unearned bonanza to the bankers.

(2) We reject the laissez-faire assumption that an absence of government intervention in the economy will produce economic equilibrium and prosperity for all.

(3) We reject the assumption implicit in the theory of international trade that international freedom of movement of trade, labour and capital will lead to prosperity for all the countries that subscribe to it.

(4) We reject the Internationalist suggestion that Britain's interests should be subservient to the interests of other countries and international organisations such as the European Economic Community; and we seek the repudiation of any treaties or agreements that restrict Britain's freedom to control its own affairs.

This AGM, therefore, proclaims the necessity for Britain to pursue a full-hearted programme of economic and social Nationalism which will:

(a) Restore to Crown authority the sole right of issue of money and remove the power of the banks to create money in the form of an interest-bearing debt.

(b) Ensure that increases in the supply of that money are proportionate to anticipated increases in the production of goods and services.

(c) Exercise control over the investment of capital so that it is directed towards those areas of the economy where it is most needed in the interests of the nation and so that interest rates do not soar as a result of a demand for investments exceeding its supply.

(d) Ensure that there is a protected home market for all manufactured goods that can be produced by British people.

(e) Encourage a greater degree of self-sufficiency in agriculture and raw materials, stimulating the development of home-produced synthetic substitutes where appropriate.

(f) Prevent by any means necessary the plundering of our national resources, particularly oil and fish, by international Capitalists and foreign producers.

(g) Withdraw unconditionally and without delay from the Common Market.

(h) Restore the incentive of ownership and profit to the millions of propertyless employees by providing positive incentives to employees to buy holdings in the companies for which they work, and by providing equivalent disincentives to the holding of shares in companies with which the holder has no connection.

(i) Ensure that British economic, national and strategic interests are paramount in all decisions taken by government and the private sector.

Proposed: Andrew Brons (Harrogate).
Seconded: Philip Gegan (Leicester).
